WWII vet knitted and donated over 400 hats to salvation army, vows to continue “until I take my last breath”

Dear Future Employer -
My name is Ryan Lovry, I am 19 years old, I live in Virginia, and I have autism. I also have a gift for math, really good with technology.
I am interested in a job in animation. Someone like you will have to take a lot of time to learn like typical people do. I would like to learn, but I learn quickly, once you explain it to me, that if you hire me and teach me, you will show up every day, do what you can, and I will work really hard.

'NHS-NextGen Nurse' work experience summary

Meliha Redzhep

The NHS-NextGen Nurse work experience was to help young people find out about a career where you can make a difference, help save and improve people's lives. At the work experience, we explored the different roles in nursing: children's nursing, adult nurse, learning disability nurse, mental health nurse and nursing associate. We also talked to other nurses about their past, what led them into choosing a career in nursing, their workdays and what they have to do, and the most useful advice to give to someone. Overall, the work experience was extremely beneficial because it showed us a realistic perspective into what it is really like to work as a nurse and it got you to think a lot about what you want to do with your future career.

'NHS-NextGen Nurse' work experience summary

Sultan Guzel

In the work experience we listened to multiple different nurses throughout the whole session, they were talking about their experiences and journeys in becoming a nurse, they also explained the different types of nursing. At the beginning of the session, we had to answer the poll questions in the chat and then discussed each poll individually and the correct answers for each question. We were also placed in breakout rooms throughout the session where we had to discuss the given topics. One of the topics we had to discuss was about an NHS advert we had to watch, which was about males in the nursing sector. If you were lucky enough to get a guest speaker in your breakout room they answered and discussed any questions which was very helpful (I was placed in a breakout room once with a guest speaker). After the breakout rooms finished, one person from each group shared their group's thoughts with everyone else. Overall, I really enjoyed the experience and listening to all of the guest speakers and their personal experiences.

A message from Miss Gibbins – Assistant Year Achievement Coordinator for Year 10

Hello Year 10,

Thank you for all your hard work this term, through lockdown and in school. Your resilience to any situation that is thrown at you is outstanding and inspiring. To go from learning at home on a Friday to being back in uniform and in your lesson on Tuesday was done with maturity, dedication and respect for our school community.

As a year group your attitude to learning is fantastic and for that I know myself and Ms Johnson are proud to be part of your team! Please have a well deserved break and come back fresh and ready to take on a new term.

All the best
Miss Gibbins

Work Experience Highlights

By Ruby Gunes

My work experience with Johnson Matthey was thoroughly enjoyable. The main topic was women working in STEM jobs and female empowerment which I am very passionate about! We took time watching different videos about gender stereotypes, then collectively agreed that they needed to change and later discussed topics related to this. It was fun and intriguing to discover what everybody else thought about the subject and I left feeling positive, hopeful and ready for a new society.

Change of the Light Brigade

This poem is based on purely hearing and chanting the six men that work for us.

The poem represents the army of brass and the noise.

This not to make any reply
This not to reason why
This not to do and die
This not their decision

In the quote the writer shows that their basic human rights were taken away and the will of the soldiers.

The poet view of the quote states that the soldiers are trapped and have no way of escaping. The human rights are gone.

The valley of death
The jaws of death
The mouth of hell

This could be used to describe the field where the dead people grows weeds.
This can describe a death chamber.
This can describe a very stuffy sleep.

What was the impact of Sally's decision to set up her own business as a personal trainer (2)?

She will have some regular to her business so she will have some regular of gain - what she might run out of money - she will have some spare it all and on different things

What was the impact of Sally's decision would be the financial risk that she will have to take could be risky if she loses and Sally will lose her well payed job and she might have to be unemployed for a while - From the fact that Sally might not experience be used to afford equipment - supplies for her business - which could result in Sally's potential customers going to her competitors.

Explain one way Sally could try to gain awareness of her new business

Sally could advertise on gym using flyers as the case study says Sally says she will use social media to promote her business. Sally as Sally wants to be a personal trainer, advertising in gym might be a great way to advertise. This would be a good place to advertise promote her business as it will be the right target market which would lead to her gaining customers.
