A MESSAGE FROM MISS BILSBY

Hi Year 8!

Well done for a positive start to Year 8, you have achieved 9628 achievement points since you have started in September.

You have made a huge contribution to the school community so far by attending co-curricular activities, helping at open evening, joining committees and engaging positively to your lessons.

Keep up the hard work and I look forward to starting another positive half term with you.

Enjoy your break

Miss Bilsby

In your own words write a definition:

A Hazard is a danger or risk which could harm, hurt or kill you.

What other words are connected to this key word?

Danger, risk, threat, endanger, dangerous, perilous, avalanche, flood, wild fire, tsunami

Keyword = Hazard

Draw or find a picture to illustrate this key word: Tornado

Earthquake, Cyclone, Eruption, drought

Use this term correctly in a sentence:

The hazard from a volcano is lava and hot ash.

Create a question where the key word is in the answer:

Q. When you come across a casualty for the first time what is the first thing you remove? A. The hazard.

Self assess your understanding of this key word: Got it! Almost! Not yet!

Bradley Webb- Spanish

Kai Baptiste- English

In this extract, Bradley presents the dinosaur as destructive and monstrous. This is shown in the quotation, 'exposing a fence of teeth like daggers'. The simile emphasises on how large the dinosaur's teeth are. The noun 'daggers' suggests that the dinosaur's teeth can destroy and eat anything. This is also backed up by the quote, 'leaving prints six inches deep wherever it settled its weight'. The quotation shows that the dinosaur can be destructive with other parts of his body, not just his teeth. This would make the reader feel worried for the men, knowing that they can be killed within the blink of an eye.

(S) Fantastic work Kai! You have followed the P E A structure well; explored the effect of key techniques and word choice; and explained the effect on the reader

There was an unrecognisable sign. It was braded towards the outskirts of Northumberland Park, an unboundended gamous train station. It is 2156 and the air was full of pollen and dirty air, pollution?

On the sign at Northumberland Park, it says:

THFC TIME TRAVEL

Back OR towards the Future and Past

in the distance

A boy named Hojbjerg, wearing a Tottenham Hotspur shirt and dark ripped shorts. He was 50 years of age and one day he had a swift moment where he came across the sign at Northumberland Park. There was none there at all. A mysterious white box was next to the THFC sign. Hojbjerg was full of ^{was walking?} ^{→ sentence structure} ~~congestion~~ and couldn't understand what was occurring. He cautiously steps towards the box and at that time he ~~did~~ whispers to himself "OH MY GOD". The box was almost like a vacuum. It had taken Hojbjerg. The box was small and smelt like a ~~very~~ burning bag of ^{smile} ~~ice~~.

The box swamped and swarmed for around 2 and a half ^{dialogue} ^{→ short sentence} ~~minutes~~. Hojbjerg had irreversibly been taken and potentially taken back to the past. He stepped out. A vast area of Wembley was seen. It was as good as a ~~chater~~ ^{chater}.
