Life as a Sixth Former

Similarities

- Dress code expectations
- Punctuality and attendance
- Exam stress/coursework pressure

Differences

- Fewer subjects 3 or 4
- Increased reading and homework, formal expectation of 5hrs per subject outside of lesson time
- 'Non Contact' periods, more independence to manage your own time
- Mentors

Competencies to Develop

1. Independence – being organised, using your time productively, taking responsibility, learning study skills that suit you, seeking out opportunities.
2. Being resilient and determined – enjoying learning from mistakes, embracing new challenges, trying things in different ways, not giving up, aiming high, taking risks.
3. Working well with others – working and learning with others in different contexts, taking on different roles, demonstrating leadership.
4. Communication – developing written and digital literacy, listening actively, developing confidence to speak publicly.

These are all competencies that you can (and will) grow and develop.
